Wapato Senior High School
Wapato, Washington
Volume 31 1965-66

In Her Honor . . . We Dedicate . . .

We the yearbook staff of 1966 proudly dedicate the 1965-66 Wasehian to Miss Lessie Rasco. Her outstanding service as girls counselor and head of the Future Teachers Organization has distinguished her through her years.

Born in Alabama, Miss Rasco moved to the Yakima Valley in her high school years and proudly calls the Valley her home. A graduate of Whitworth College, Miss Rasco came to Wapato twenty-three years ago.

During her stay she has taught all levels of English and a year of U. S. History. After several years here Miss Rasco organized the Future Teachers Club and this organization is still growing. Besides being an asset to the Faculty, Miss Rasco is active in the Wapato Community Presbyterian Church and the Business and Professional Women's Club in Yakima. She has traveled in Europe, Canada, Hawaii, Mexico and far up into Alaska.

Through her church work and Mother's Reception in the spring, Miss Rasco feels she knows the community well. She said, "Wapato and the Wapato Schools have been a vital part of my life for many years. I shall always remember and prize my many friends in Wapato."

The students and community will long remember Miss Rasco and her valuable contribution to the Wapato Schools.

Administration

Administration Officials

Students—just one generation ago, when many of your parents were your age, a high school education was considered as adequate preparation in many vocational areas and high school graduates could look ahead with a good deal of assurance to many years of satisfactory and rewarding employment in a field of their choosing.

This is no longer true! As a result of the rapid growth of knowledge, and the great technological developments of the present day, employment opportunities for the unskilled and untrained have all but vanished. The high school diploma has become a minimum requirement for even the simplest jobs. Furthermore, employees in all areas of work are being urged to participate in a continuing process of learning and relearning in order that they can keep pace with the growing and changing demands of our economy and of our society.

For these reasons the value of your high school education must be judged, not so much on the basis of facts and information which you may have mastered, but rather upon abilities you have developed to understand problems, to solve problems, and—most important—to keep on learning.

They Lead With Efficiency

It seems like only yesterday that I was given my assignment for the 1965 yearbook and today I have been asked to write a message for the 1966 yearbook. I sincerely hope that all of our students are alert to the lesson that the passage of time gives us. With good planning we can accomplish much and there will be ample time to attain our goals.

The present status of the world situation indicates that we are more and more depending upon our youth. As young men and women you will be given many responsibilities in our society; and you must be ready to assume this responsibility wherever you go. The administration and faculty hope that the tools of learning that we have been able to expose you to will make your responsibilities come easier and make your future a bright and prosperous one.

For the administration and faculty I congratulate the class of 1966 on the fine record made during the past three years. Your excellent spirit and cooperation has been very gratifying. For those graduating, and those returning, remember time passes quickly and quietly. I sincerely hope you continue to use it wisely.

Good luck to all.

Sincerely,

Jack Dorr

Afterword

Many seasons will pass before your eyes will finally come to rest and actually read the words printed on this page, but at last this yearbook is an actuality and you have before you our earnest endeavor to review the highlights of another eventful year together.

Such projects aren't in the habit of dropping from the sky—completion involved laborious hours of hard work on the part of a cooperating and ready staff.

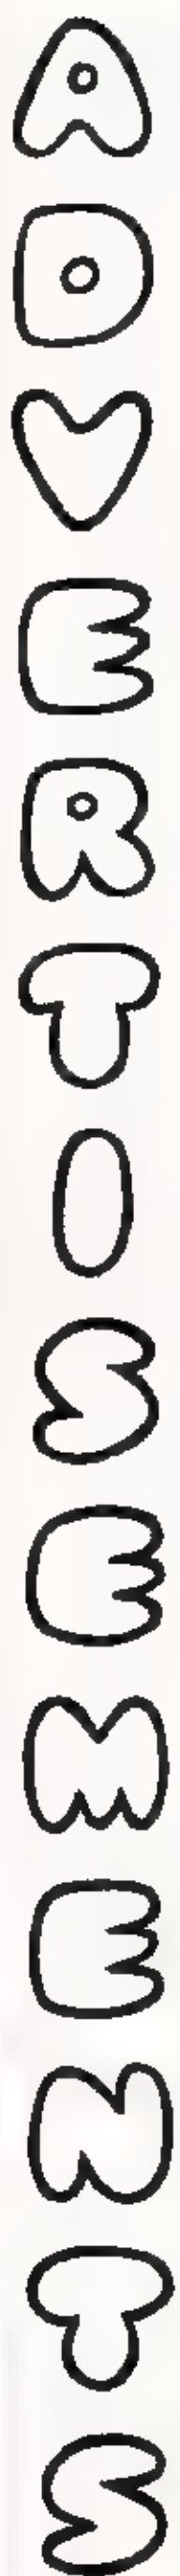

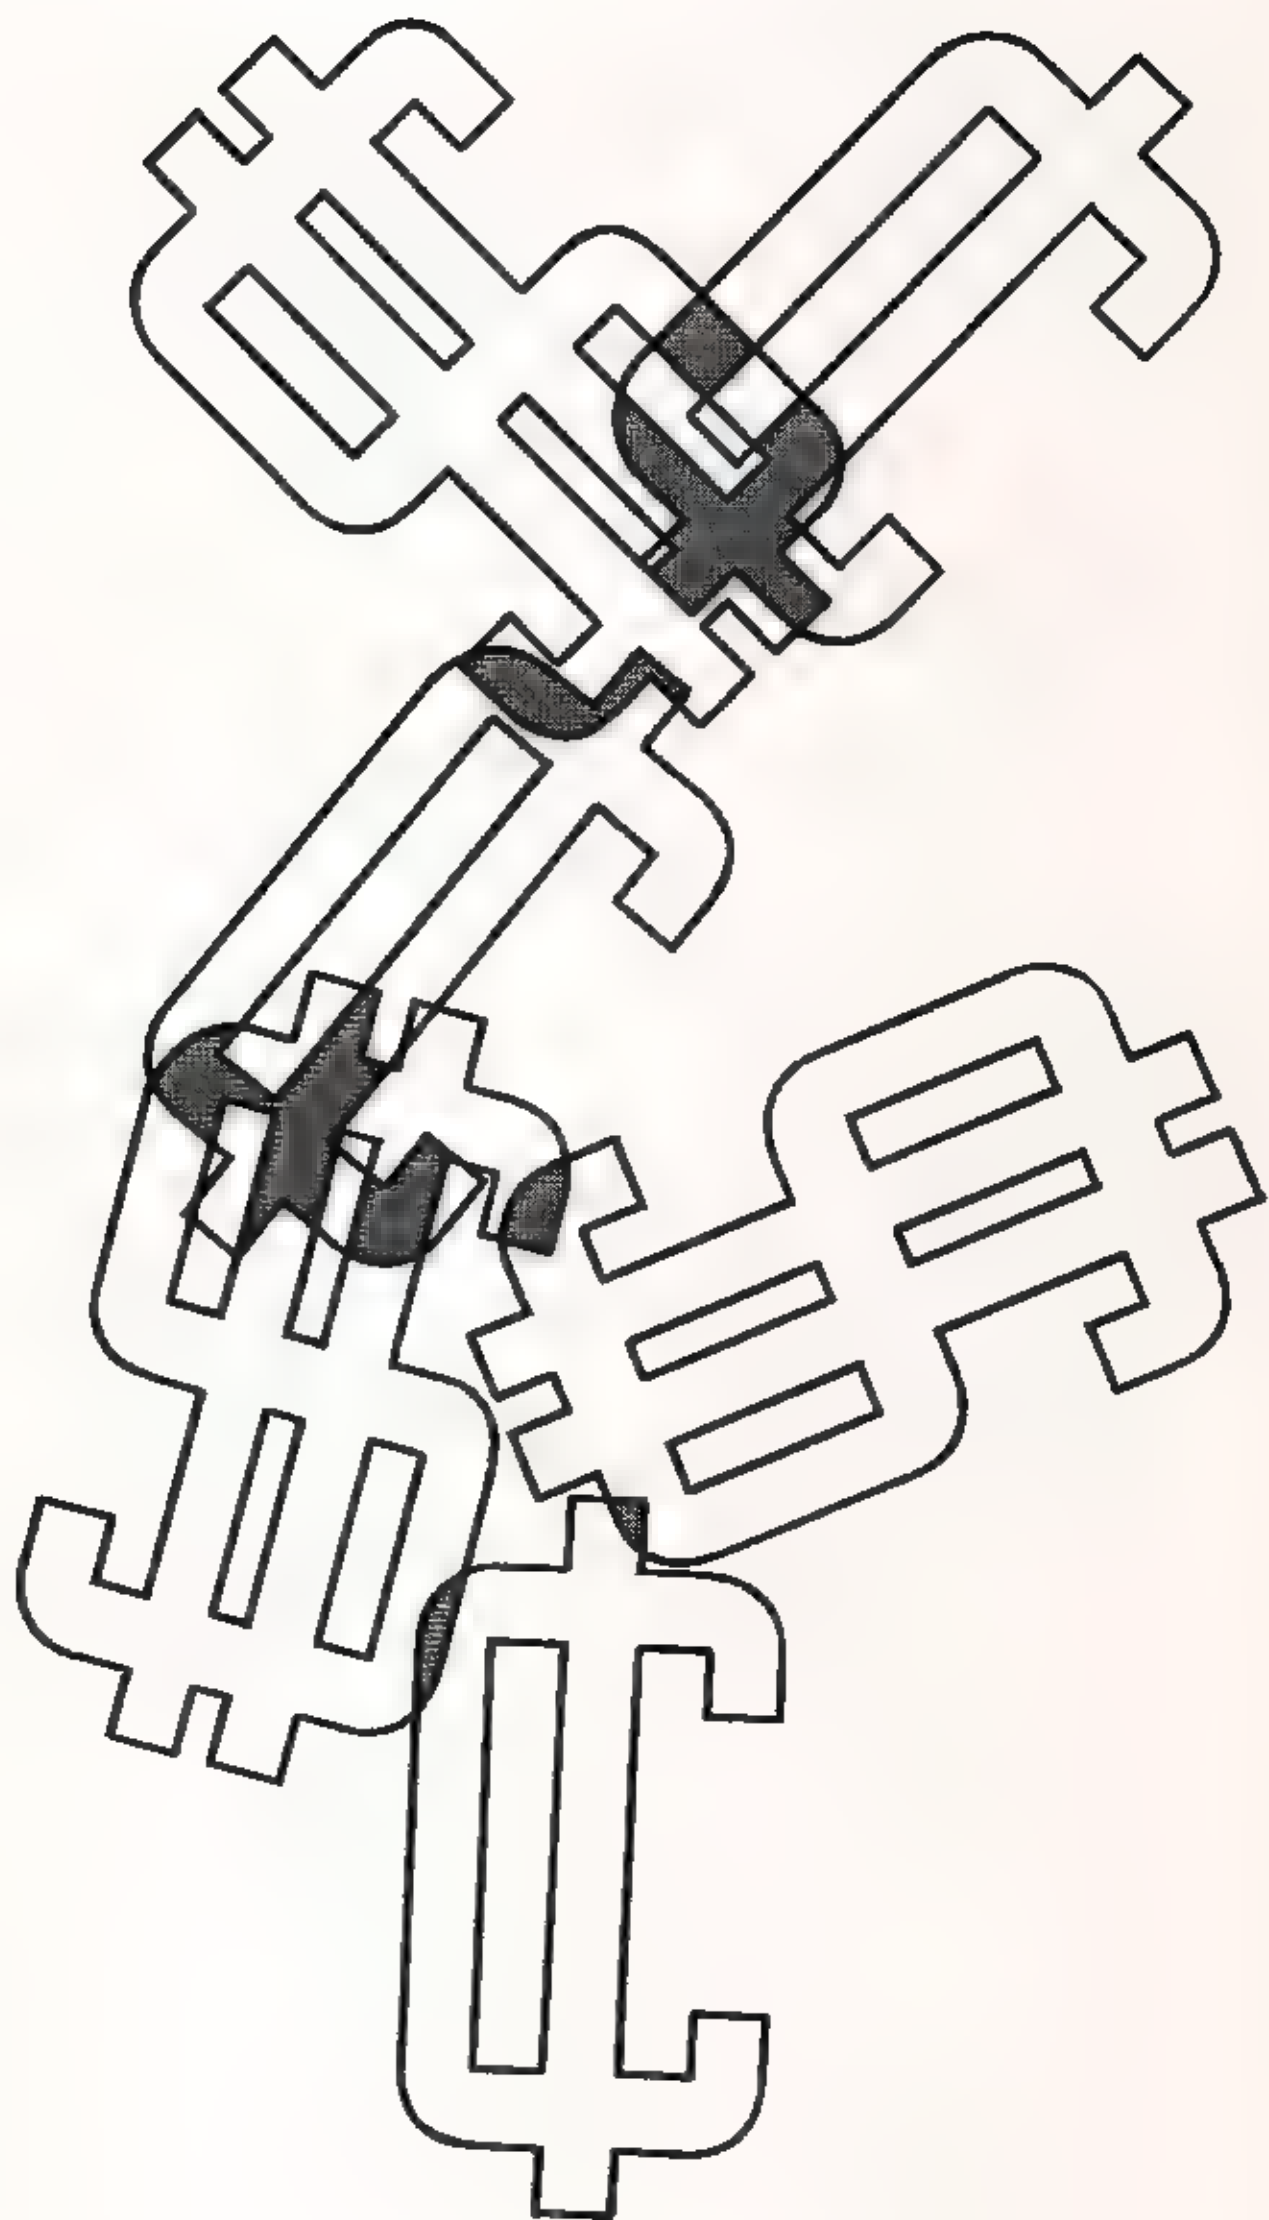

Outstanding in this regard was Joanne Grammon, our able copy editor. Likewise, our grateful acknowledgement is extended to Mrs. Groenig of the faculty, whose competent advice was vital for the accomplishment of this task; to Dale Clark and Gary Taylor for their fine photography; to Nancy Wilcox and Dallas Hake for their hard work on the necessary business managing; and to Jerry Freeman for his exceptional artistry.

Our hat is off to these, the builders of your 1966 Wasehian.

Editor-in-Chief,
